CHILD LABOR DISCUSSED

There Was a Debate, but a Vote Was Not Taken,

TO PASS THE CABELL ACT

Seems Certain That This Measure Will Go Through With Probably Some Amendments-A Brief Session of the House.

The whole time of the Senate was token up yesterday in the discussion of the child-labor bills. Two speeches were made, the one in favor of the Cabel bill and the other in advocacy of the Lyle measure. Mr. Halsey spoke for the Cabell measure and Mr. Lyle for his to-day. It looks very much as if the Cabell bill, with some amendments, Cabell bill, with some amendments, would be passed to-day.

The Senate met with prayer by the Rev. J. J. Gravatt.

In the early stages of the proceedings, the Hobb's bill to provide for the rearing and the training of bloodhounds at the State Farm for the use of the sheriffs in running down criminals, came up. Mr. Hobbs made a brief speech in advocating the passage of the measure. His talk was witty and humorous, "This is a day of bloodhounds," said he, and the Senators shook their sides with laughtef while the jolly, good Senator from Prince George proceeded in a practical, business-like way to advocate the passage of the bill. It was unanimously parsed to its engressment. This was a good one.

and and an annual state of the ANDERSON BILL PASSED.

The Anderson bill to provide for the extension of corporate limits came up as the special order. There was no debate upon it. A letter from Mr. Cogbill, the leader of the opposition, was read, regretting his inability to be present and asking that the measure be passed by Mr. Anderson said there was no isonator for whom he had a higher regard than Mr. Cogbill. He would go to any reasonable lengths to oblige him, but this fr. Cogbill. He would go to any rea-onable lengths to oblige him, but this

From these statements and the experience of all visitors to the library, it is laughable to hear it claimed that the books are becoming dust-covered from lack of use.

Under the terms of the agreement by which Atlanta secured the very handsome donation from Mr. Carnegie, only $5,000 per annum was required for support. Since then the city has voluntarily increased this amount to $7,000 and it is not beyond the range of possibilities that it will be still further enlarged by an additional appropriation of $8,000 this year, making an appropriation similar to that of Nashville, which city gives $10,000 per year to its library.

for whom he had a higher regard than Mr. Coybill. He would go to any reasonable lengths to oblige him, but this was a very important measure, and the test vote had been had. Therefore, he could see no good reason for delay in the passage of the act.

Mr. Bryant, who had opposed the bill, mad he realized that the Cogbill act was beaten and he would not ask for postponement of the further consideration of the Anderson bill.

The Anderson bill was then passed by a vote of 15 to 11.

CHILD LABOR BILLS.

The special order for 12:15 o'clock was the Lyle bill making it a misdeanmor to employ children under the age of twelve years in manufacturing, mechanical and mining operations. Mr. Halsey opened the debate, advocating the passage of his substitute, which is the same as the Cabell bill passed by the House. The Lynchburg Senator made an eloquent and a strong speech in his support of the substitute. He paid a beautiful tribute to what is sometimes termed. His country and they proved it by their devotion and service to the Confederate Cause. Mr. Halsey mould rather see this excellent class remain at their country homes, than that they should become victims of financial greed and put their children to work in factories in the cities. The speaker read several extracts from publications arguing against child labor. Mr. Halsey said the press of the State had spoken with rare untnimity in support of the Cabell bill, which measure had the support of the leading newspaper in the State, The Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Mr. Halsey, after paying a pretty tribute to Mrs. Cartar Glass, read an edi-

Mr. Halsey said that while it was not Mr. Halsey said that while it was not possible for Virginia to lead her Southern sisters in this matter, he did not wish to see her bring up the rear. Many Southern States have already passed legislation on this subject and the time was not at hand for Virginia to act. The speaker thought that the Cabell bill would sotite the question for all time, while the Lyle bill would serve only to continue the fight and to carry it on until it is settled aright. The Cabell act, Mr. Halsey the thought, was best for manufacturers and for the children.

In his conclusion, Mr. Halsey grew very oloquent in his plea for legislation that sick at her home on North Avenue, is now able to resume her studies. Miss Minnie Williams, who has been visiting relatives near Lakeside, has re-

MR. LYLE OPPOSES.

Mr. Lyle, in that plain, practical way, which he has of presenting arguments, contended that his bill ought to be passed. He was convinced that there was going to be legislation on this subject; in fact, he wanted an act to be passed. "But," said the Senator, "let us approach the matter in a practical way. Don't let us decide it by quoting poetry, and let sentiment control us."

Mr. Lyle said that those who came before the committee could not recite one single instance in Virginia where there was a "crying evil" as the result of the employment of child labor. Every single case mentioned was in some other State. The Roanoke Senator stated that he had made some investigation on his ewn part and he had not found such conditions existing in factories as are pictured by the wild advocates of the Cabell bill. Mr, Lyle, however, thought there ought to be legislation on this subject and he believed his bill would accomplish all that is desired.

Mr. Lyle brought out the fact that his bill applied to mines, while the Cabell act did not so apply. Mr. Halsey was perfectly willing to have the Cabell measure apply to mines.

In his closing, Mr. Lyle made a very a short sickness at his nome on Novin Avenue.

to make definite announcements in a rew days.

The affair will most undoubtedly be the leading event socially of the past eight years of association history. At the banqueting table, where choice viands will be spread and wit and eloquence flow uninterruptedly through the channels of thought into the ocean of friendship and good-fellowship, it is rumored, seats will be only for those who have brought in a new member during the contest, the invitation including the new members brought in.

It can, therefore, be readily seen that from now on the contest will wage warm, and while the fight will be carnest, yet it will be friendly, because General Wattson and General Sills are both fighting for the same cause, with loyal men on either side.

Every member of the association and friend is invited to get into this contest and help roll the membership up to and beyond the thousand mark by March 5th. Then comes the banquet,

The record at the association building thus far reveals the fact that some members have sooured as many as eight men in the last three weeks, and the Generals say there is not a man in the association who cannot secure at least one man and get a seat at the banquet, if he but will.

The twenty-sixth State Convention of the Virginia Young Men's Christian Associations will be held in the city of Newport News from February 28th to March 1st, inclusive.

The official call has just been issued by the State Executive Committee, and contains information necessary for the association representatives to this gathering. As is usual with association gatherings in Virginia, free entertainment will be provided by the association and friends of Newport News. The railroads of the State have granted special reduced rates on account of the convention.

THE PROGRAMME.

The programme will be sent to associations within the next few days, and contains the names of the following well-known Christian workers:

Mr. Fred, B. Smith, secretary religious work department of the International mittee, New York eity, who has had such remarkable success in mammoth massmeetings for men all over the country.

Rev. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the future work of the Virginia College Associations.

The State Committee is especially fortunate this year in securing the services of the Virginia Glee Club, of Richmond. This club sang last February at the Staunton Convention, and gave such general satisfaction that the request came that they be secured for the Newport News Convention. The club has recently spent considerable time rehearing gospen considerable time rehearing gospel music, and is in excellent shape for the convention. Mr. G. Peter Jones is the director, with W. A. Watkins, first tenor; J. A. Morton, second tenor; J. J. McBaln, first bass, and Joseph F. White, second bass. Mr. B. S. Fenn, general secretary of the Ronoke city Association, will lead the convention singing.

The sessions of the convention will be held in the First Presbyterian Church.

The sessions of the convention will be held in the First Presbyterian Church, Rev. E. T. to know of an argument being made by those who are opposed to the city of Augusta accepting the generoity of Andrew Carnegle, proffered with the understanding that 10 per coat, of the amount so donated shall be furnished annually by the city for maintenance. The point is raised by those who oppose the acceptance of the millionaire's offer with this provision, now invariably insisted upon by Mr. Carnegle, that it would be an expensive gift from the standpoint of the people. The legal right of the City Council to obligate future administrations to meet the provisions of the bequest is also questioned. Since the Atlanta library has been brought into the controversy and the statement has been made that the "institution is a failure and is about to shut its doors" for lack of support and encouragement, the real condition of affairs should be stated for the benefit of our Angusta neighbors. It is doubtful if an investment has ever been made by the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results than the controver of the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results than the controver of the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results than the controver of the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results than the controver of the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results that the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results that the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results that the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results that the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results that the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results that the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results that the city of Atlanta with better or more satisfactory results that the city of th of the library's career 116,234 volumes were circulated among 11,090 registered borrowers, this in addition to the visitors who do not take books away from the building. One pleasing and very satisfactory feature connected with the library work is the great interest taken by the children. The report places the list of visitors who are under fourteen years of age at 25 per cent. of the whole number. TWO ROOSTERS IN
